The Boy That Never Was

4 x one hour | RTÉ

Essaouira, Morocco. A bustling, vibrant, seductive city, now home to struggling artists Harry, Robin and their three-year-old son, Dillon. With little support, adapting to life as new parents in their friend Cosmo's tiny apartment hasn't been easy, but despite the sleep deprivation, the couple remain devoted to their little boy. And then one evening, everything changes.

Harry leaves a sleeping Dillon alone for the briefest of moments when an earthquake hits. Harry races back to rescue his child, only to find his apartment in rubble and no evidence of Dillon.

Three years later, thousands of miles away in Dublin, Harry spots a six-year-old boy in a crowd – a boy he is convinced is Dillon. Harry must prove his son is alive, even if he can't quite believe it himself. Harry's obsession tears apart his marriage, exposing shameful secrets and shattering the one thing he and Robin had left – trust.

The Boy That Never Was stars award-winning actor Colin Morgan (Belfast), Toni O'Rourke (God's Creatures), Kerr Logan (Alias Grace) and 2 x BAFTA nominee Simon Callow (The Witcher), and is directed by award-winning director Hannah Quinn (Vikings: Valhalla, Disenchanted).

Catch Me a Killer

9 x one hour & 1 x 90-minutes | Showmax
Also available: 11 x one hour

Based on the book of the same name, Catch Me a Killer tells the harrowing true story of former journalist-turned-psychologist Micki Pistorius, (Charlotte Hope, The Spanish Princess, Game of Thrones) South Africa's first serial killer profiler.

In 1994, against the backdrop of a country on the brink of democracy, Micki joins a task team on the hunt for a notorious serial killer and is launched into a dangerous underworld. She is assigned with profiling the Station Strangler; a serial murderer who has left a trail of 22 dead boys in his wake. While finding her feet in a male-dominated arena, Micki battles with her status as an outsider in the police force and in the community she serves.

In each episode of this brooding dramatic thriller, Micki deals with the looming spectre of her personal life and confronts increasing darkness in her quest to entrap and understand some of South Africa's most infamous serial killers. From the Station Strangler to the Cleveland Killer to Stewart 'Boetie Boer' Wilken.

Faithless

6 x half hours | Virgin Media TV

Faithless is a captivating, timely and refreshingly funny series. It takes a comedic, tantalisingly honest and insightful look at an emerging Ireland, with its multi-cultural facets and challenges.

This sharp-witted tale tells the story of three young sisters living in Dublin and their Irish/Egyptian dad (Baz Ashmawy, 50 Ways to Kill Your Mommy) who, after a tragic incident, is raising them alone. That is until his irresponsible younger brother moves in to 'help' and never leaves.

Meet the Amin family – the new fighting Irish. Faithless takes a close look at the ways the family cope with the vacuum left behind and realise that, regardless of age or seniority, everyone has to grow up fast.

Using black comedy, it shines a light on some uncomfortable truths about gender roles, grief, identity, acceptance, faith and happiness.

“Baz Ashmawy's sitcom debut Faithless delights in unexpected ways.”

Hitler's Handmaidens

4 x one hour | A+E Networks, Sky History

The role of women in the rise and implementation of Nazi Germany is rarely featured in the history of WWII.

This series examines the role of women in the Third Reich through a contemporary lens of women as active participants in all aspects of German society.

The overarching thesis is that the Nazis could not have succeeded without women and the factors which led to the Nazi / Fascist State and the genocidal practices are not a relic of history or a particular time and could be repeated.

The Jewish Nazi?

1 x 86-minutes | SBS

Also available:

Pirates: Behind the Legends

8 x one hour | National Geographic

Climb aboard as we set sail on the high seas in search of some of history's most misunderstood criminals; Pirates.

Were they petty thieves merely in pursuit of a good pillage and plunder or were they in fact talented navigators and trusted captains of countless loyal crew? This series unearths the truth by diving deep into the lives of some of the world's most notorious pirates including John Ward, immortalised in fiction as Jack Sparrow, and English explorer Francis Drake.

Witch Hunt: The World's Worst Witch Trials

6 x one hour | National Geographic

The legend, historical events and folklore of the Salem Witch Trials have captured the imaginations of artists, playwrights and historians across the world. Beyond New England, witch trials had become a staple of the 16th and 17th centuries, not outlawed until the late 18th century. The worst of the trials followed a similar pattern of rumour, popular opinion, and with the point of a finger and the whisper of the word "witch" the hunt began.

This series looks behind the hysteria, meets the perpetrators and victims, and uncovers the truth of the events that led to six of the world's worst witch trials: Trier, North Berwick, Basque, Torsåker, Salem and Islandmagee.

Conquistadors: The Rise and Fall

6 x one hour

Conquistadors: The Rise and Fall is a gripping documentary series that delves into the fascinating and murky story of the Spanish Empire's conquest of the New World.

The series takes an unprecedented look into the brutal legend of the Spanish Conquistadors and uncovers the truth of this dark chapter in human history.

The Frontier

6 x one hour
Channel 5, National Geographic

The Frontier explores the legends, events and folklore of the American frontier which have embedded themselves into our culture so much so that the Old West, especially the Western genre of films, has become one of the defining periods of American national identity.

Hollywood movies would have us believe cowboys and Indians frequently fought each other in the Wild West, that all cowboys were white, that Native Americans were savage and violent without provocation and that all sheriffs were law-abiding citizens. The Frontier exposes the shocking reality behind these myths.

Queens That Changed the World

6 x one hour | Channel 4, SBS, BBC Select

Queens That Changed the World hones in on a formidable group of women who led the way, building nations, wielding extraordinary power, and often ruling in a manner that far surpassed their male counterparts.

This fascinating series explores what drove them, how they asserted their authority, and how at times, being a woman had its advantages. The series focuses on the Virgin Queen, Elizabeth I, the tenacious Eleanor of Aquitaine, Victoria, the British queen who redefined the monarchy, Egypt's female pharaoh Hatshepsut, the first queen of Great Britain, Anne and the warrior queen, Boudica.

Dogs of War

1 x 90-minutes | BBC

Dogs of War explores the phenomenon of modern mercenaries and illicit arms trafficking through the story of one man who operated at the heart of this covert and dangerous world for over thirty years.

Dave Tomkins was a flamboyant safe blower from Basingstoke, England. His underworld connections led him to the battlefields of Angola, where he became a mercenary fighting communist backed guerrillas. Wounded by a landmine, Dave returned home and entered the murky world of espionage, setting up mercenary operations, assassinations and huge arms deals. His exploits became legendary as he accumulated great wealth and lived a lavish jet-setting lifestyle, until a highly dangerous mission in America led to his dramatic downfall.

This thrilling feature documentary, with full access to Dave Tomkins, his associates and the men who finally caught him, will tell the incredible true story of his epic rise and fall, set against the backdrop of a deadly trade in death and destruction.

Barbie Uncovered: A Dream House Divided

1 x 90-minutes | Sky Documentaries

Narrated by Gemma Arterton (Culprits, Quantum of Solace), Barbie Uncovered explores the unknown creation story behind one of the most iconic brands today – Barbie.

While the triumph of the world's most talked about doll has been widely documented, this film reveals the surprising true story of success and excess which fuelled the Barbie phenomenon. The battle and betrayal between the co-creators Ruth Handler and Jack Ryan.

This documentary delves into the history of the duo who made Barbie rise to fame; one who built the largest toy company in the world, Mattel, from nothing and the other, a rocket scientist who made Barbie "twist and turn".

The film spotlights the soaring success of Barbie, with sales of 300,000 dolls in the first year, to over two billion before Ruth died. The enormous financial rewards for both multi-millionaire parents are exposed, and this leads to a surprising story of betrayal, sex, drugs and excessive partying.

Murder at First Swipe

1 x 90-minutes | Prime Video

The shocking true story of Stephen Port, a serial killer hiding in plain sight. A tale of false narrative, multiple identities, police failure and a man who was allowed to kill again and again.

Serial killer Stephen Port scoured dating apps to choose and target his victims. He then drugged, raped and murdered them, before discarding their lifeless bodies on the streets of East London.

Featuring exclusive interviews from those closest to the case, and unseen correspondence from Port himself, Murder at First Swipe is the true story of a killer covering his tracks and his trails of breadcrumbs left for a police force that diligently followed them.

The London Underground Killer

1 x 90-minutes | Prime Video

In a South London police station, officers are shocked to discover a man has been murdered in a locked cell. The suspected killer is his cellmate, a homeless man named Kieran Kelly, in custody for theft. Police interview 53-year-old Kelly and he calmly confesses, but detectives are unprepared for what comes next.

Kieran Kelly goes on to confess having killed dozens of people over the previous 30 years, claiming to have pushed his first victim to his death under a London Underground train. This documentary explores what is fact and what is fiction, by talking to those who have first-hand knowledge of serial killer Kieran Kelly.

The Murder of Sandra Rivett

1 x 90-minutes | Prime Video

In 1974, an aristocratic household was at war in London with Lord and Lady Lucan at loggerheads over the custody of their children. While newly employed nanny, Sandra Rivett managed to bring some calm to the chaotic household and find a kindred spirit in her employer, Veronica, Countess of Lucan – Sandra had no idea her world was about to come crashing down in a crime that has fascinated generations for 50 years.

Promising to explore the misogyny engrained in the social history of the time, The Murder of Sandra Rivett tells the story from the aspect of two women who were polar opposites in terms of class but whose lives ran a parallel, battling mental health, marriage and motherhood before their paths crossed for a brief interlude of happiness.

With varying theories of what actually happened on the night that Sandra was killed, including a first-hand account of life in the Lucan household from the family's former nanny, The Murder of Sandra Rivett also highlights how differently the scandal would have been resolved had it occurred today.

Breaking Dad: Britain's Unlikeliest Drug Dealer

2 x one hour | Prime Video

How Richard Lubbock, a mild-mannered, North London, Jewish family-man became Britain's biggest meth dealer is now revealed for the first time in these two gripping films. Inspired by his son James's memoir, Breaking Dad, this stranger than fiction story recounts a cautionary tale as Richard risks everything to swap his comfortable life for one of crime at a time when one of the most addictive drugs on the planet was making its way into the beating heartland of the London club scene.

This is the story of the most unlikely character who contributed to the rise of meth in Britain in the early 2000s and how the police managed to eventually catch him. At times shocking, often unbelievable, but all 100% true.

Vanished: The Lucie Blackman Mystery

2 x one hour | Prime Video

Lucie Blackman – a tall, blonde, 21-year-old – stepped out into the vastness of the Tokyo night in the summer of 2000 and disappeared forever. The following winter, her remains were found buried in a seaside cave.

Lucie's story starts in the quiet, leafy town of Sevenoaks and races through the seedy underbelly of a Tokyo nightclub district where she had been working as a 'hostess'. It is laced with mysterious cults, conmen, bizarre rituals, and ends with the revelation of an unspeakable crime by one of the world's most prolific sex offenders.

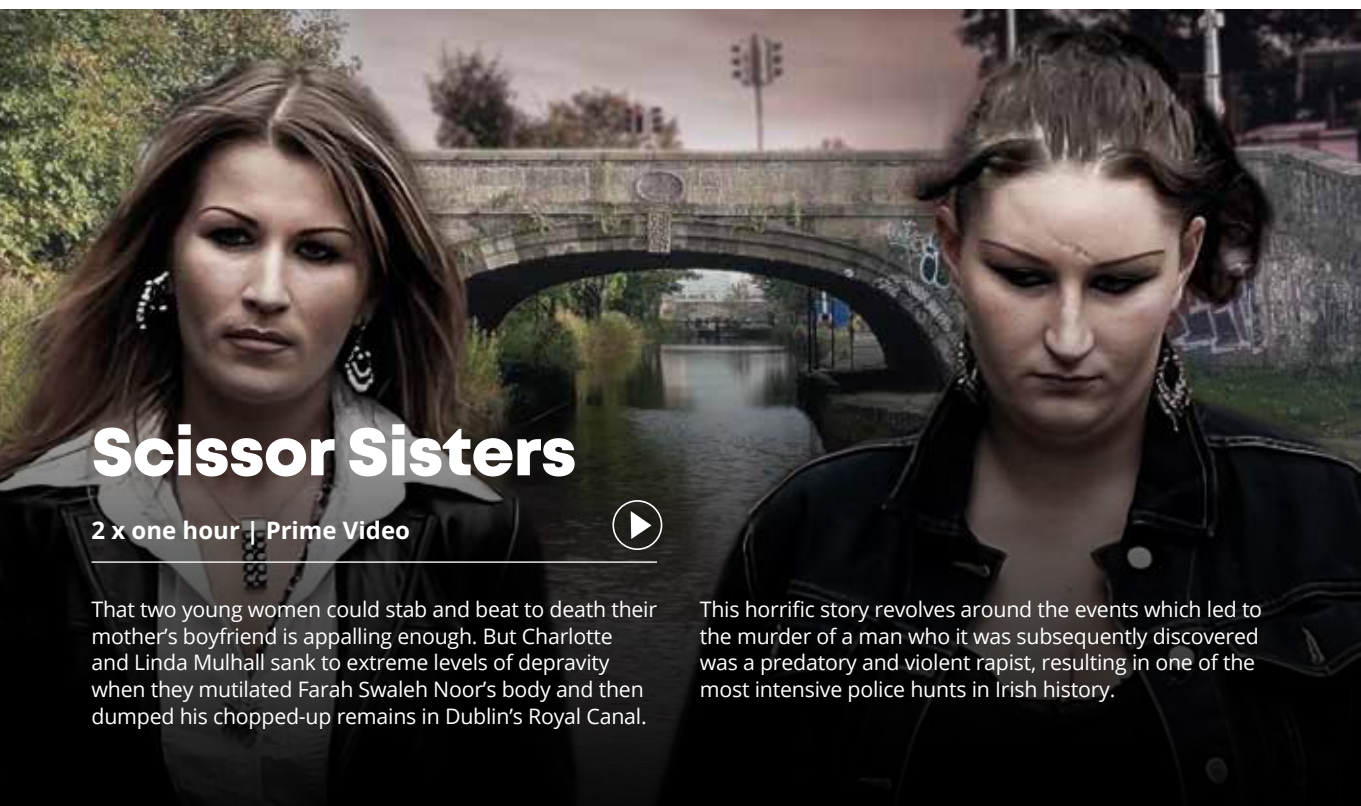

Scissor Sisters

2 x one hour | Prime Video

That two young women could stab and beat to death their mother's boyfriend is appalling enough. But Charlotte and Linda Mulhall sank to extreme levels of depravity when they mutilated Farah Swaleh Noor's body and then dumped his chopped-up remains in Dublin's Royal Canal.

This horrific story revolves around the events which led to the murder of a man who it was subsequently discovered was a predatory and violent rapist, resulting in one of the most intensive police hunts in Irish history.

Massacre in Moscow

2 x one hour | Sky Crime

Moscow, Idaho is famous for accommodating the University of Idaho. This makes the town a young, vibrant, fun community. But in the early hours of November 13th, 2022, this idyllic college community is shaken by the news of the brutal murder of four college students in their home, while they slept.

Massacre in Moscow utilises interviews from the people responsible for catching the notorious killer and those who knew the victims; creating a robust account of the crime that shocked the world and took social media by storm.

Murder in a Teacup

1 x 90-minutes | Prime Video

When members of a workforce began falling violently ill, locals believed a virus was sweeping the area, but after the death of two men it became clear that the only impurity was a serial poisoner with a toxic past.

When colleagues at photographic equipment supplier John Hadland's began falling ill, the locals all believed there was something harmful in the village water supply.

This highly stylised documentary shines a long overdue light on one of the most intriguing and bizarre British cases of the 20th Century – the serial murders of poisoner Graham Young.

Original Sin: My Son the Killer

1 x 90-minutes | Showmax

On 2nd May 2011 in Johannesburg South Africa, Gerhard Jansen van Vuuren stabbed his girlfriend 14 times, killing her in broad daylight, and all caught on CCTV. A violent murderer yes, but also a charismatic manipulator, who evaded prison – twice – in two different countries, assumed three different identities, and started families with two different women, before being brought to justice. And all with the help from his mother.

With unprecedented access to many of the key characters, a mass of personal archive as well as footage of the courtroom denouement, this film goes way beyond the horrific crime Gerhard committed and his escape from justice. It examines what it was that made him, and the personality that allowed him to literally get away with murder. Until now...

The Murder That Changed Britain

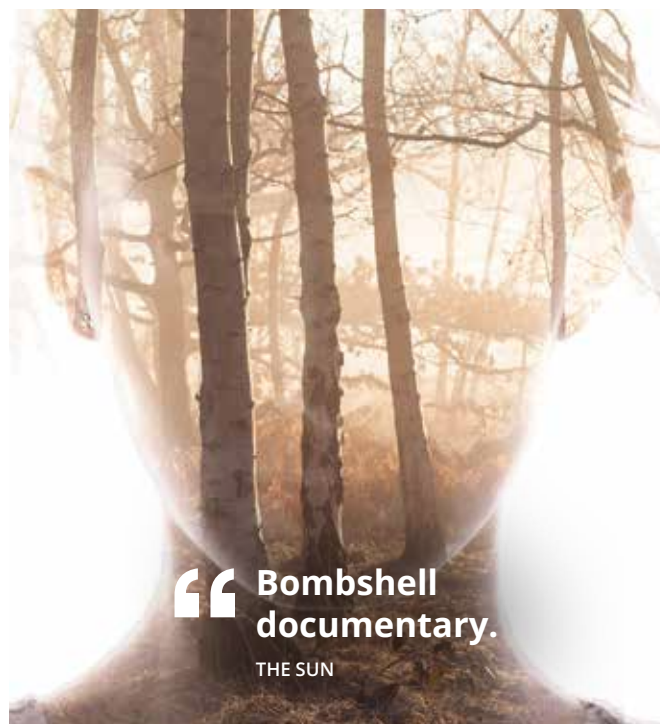

1 x 67-minutes | CBS Reality

In 1992, Rachel Nickell was murdered on Wimbledon Common as her two-year-old son looked on. Her death would lead to one of the most notorious miscarriages of justice in British criminal history.

Colin Stagg was wrongly accused and imprisoned for a crime he did not commit. For three decades, the man who has squarely shouldered the blame for this catastrophic failing was the country's leading forensic psychologist, Professor Paul Britton.

Britton, who has never spoken publicly on the matter, finally breaks his silence in a series of exclusive, no holds barred interviews. What emerges is a far more complex story than anyone could ever imagine.

Murdered: Baby on the Beach

3 x one hour | Channel 4, Virgin Media TV

In 1984, predominantly Catholic Ireland was caught in the midst of moral tensions and civil unrest. The shocking discovery of a violently murdered baby's remains on a beach in County Kerry launched a gripping investigation into the heinous crime and triggered even greater social divides. The investigation, marred by prejudicial judgements of single mothers and 'fallen women,' casted suspicion on Joanne Hayes and her family.

This series revisits the case that changed the life of every woman in Ireland and exposed a flawed system, which allowed Gardai to pin the murder on the Hayes family without real evidence.

“Takes us through the twisty investigation and uses new details to try and solve the disturbing mystery.”

The Real Serpent: Investigating a Serial Killer

3 x one hour | Channel 4

Also available: 1 x 90-minute version

In the 1960s and 70s, countless young Westerners went to Asia, backpacking along the Hippie Trail. Some of them met a handsome young gemstone dealer called Charles Sobhraj. The lucky ones were drugged and robbed of their passports and belongings. The unlucky ones lost their lives to the serial killer who would become known as The Serpent.

Today, at almost 80 years of age, Sobhraj, the conman turned killer, has pulled off perhaps his greatest trick. Against all the odds, he has been released from prison in Nepal where he was serving a life sentence for the murder of two backpackers in the country in the 1970s.

Today, as a free man, he nonetheless remains suspected of the senseless slaying of dozens of other young tourists across Asia.

This master of evading both truth and justice, has been in the sights of film-makers David Howard and Rik Hall for almost a decade and they have now gained unprecedented access to Sobhraj. As well as following him with their cameras for six months, Sobhraj has laid down the gauntlet inviting anyone with evidence against him to come forward and challenge him.

Becoming Ian Brady

3 x one hour | Prime Video

The Moors Murders shocked Britain in the 1960s. Five children murdered at the hands of Myra Hindley and Ian Brady.

This series turns the lens on Brady to take a unique look at what made him into arguably the UK's worst ever serial killer.

Framing events through Brady's involvement and the evolution of his twisted desires, the series examines the impact of the murders and questions how they could have happened.

The Murder of Meredith

1 x 90-minutes | Prime Video

The brutal murder of Meredith Kercher in the university town of Perugia, Italy, led to a media frenzy with dizzying twists and turns, and speculation. Over the years, Meredith's life and reputation have been pulled apart and eclipsed by that of her then flatmate, the infamous Amanda Knox.

Told by those involved in the case, The Murder of Meredith examines the evidence, the egos, and the errors that left Meredith's family with more questions than answers.

Monkey on a Stick

2 x one hour | Hollywood Suite, Bell Media
Also available: 1 x 90-minute version

Monkey on a Stick is a documentary adaptation of The New York Times bestselling book that exposed the true story behind the rise and fall of the Hare Krishna movement in the West, peeling back the movement's criminal past to reveal a decades-long cover-up of moral decay and abuse of power. But it wasn't always that way. The documentary's key subject, Nori Muster, was once a devoted follower of ISKCON – the International Society for Krishna Consciousness – until she discovered the organisation's dark secrets.

Monkey on a Stick follows Nori and the authors of the book as they realise there are still more secrets behind the movement's most shocking crimes, and ISKCON's descent into becoming the worst kind of religious cult.

Confessions of a Psycho Killer

1 x 95-minutes | Prime Video

This documentary takes viewers back to 1975, when the body of 63-year-old vicar Anthony Crean was found dead in a quiet village in the English county Kent after a frenzied axe attack. A young man, Patrick Mackay, confessed to the killing and a series of follow up police interviews led to a disturbing series of confessions that spread into London.

What followed was a series of police interviews and confessions which would leave investigators stunned.

Making a Serial Killer

Season 1: 10 x one hour | Filmrise

This gripping true crime series examines the crimes and minds of some of the world's worst serial killers, to reveal what turned them into the monsters they are.

Through powerful first-hand testimony from those who knew the killers up close, along with the legal teams that bought them to justice, this series reveals the appalling details of each tragic case – and how each killer was ultimately bought to justice. Meanwhile, analysis from expert criminologists and psychotherapists unravels the minds and motives of each killer, finding patterns and behaviours that could help identify other killers before it's too late.

Season 2 (COMING Q2 2024): 10 x one hour

In the Footsteps of Killers

Seasons 1 & 2: 9 x one hour | Channel 4

THE HORROR REPORT

Killer Performance

6 x one hour | Reelz

Exploring the diabolical personas of murderers who cry fake tears to manipulate the media and public in a disturbing attempt to exonerate themselves from their crimes.

Killer Performance delves into chilling cases where public appearances and police interviews played host for killers Ted Bundy, John Wayne Gacy, Drew Peterson, Chacey Poynter, Stephen McDaniell and Chris Watts to feign grief to persuade the public of their innocence.

Some aspects of the psychopathic mind these killers exhibited was the need to be in control, the egotistical belief that they were a step ahead of everyone else and the feeling that they were getting away with murder.

During a public investigation these master manipulators are given countless opportunities to practice their evil performance. Press conferences, interviews and court appearances are all stages for the killer to control the media narrative by faking grief and spinning a web of lies.

Simple Minds: Everything is Possible

1 x 88-minutes | Paramount +

Simple Minds: Everything is Possible tells the inspirational story of how a group of working-class kids growing up in post-industrial Glasgow dared to dream. Those kids became Simple Minds, the most iconic and influential Scottish band in history.

At the very heart of Simple Minds is the ongoing friendship between Jim Kerr and his songwriting partner Charlie Burchill who met in the shadow of a brand-new Glasgow council tower block in 1967. Alongside a series of intimate interviews with Jim and Charlie, the film features contributions from Jimmy Iovine, Bob Geldof, Molly Ringwald, Bobby Gillespie, Dave Gahan, Irvine Welsh, Sharleen Spiteri, Richard Branson, Mariella Frostrup and many more.

Simple Minds: Everything is Possible is a music-inspired human-interest story imbued with social history, politics, and activism. It features unseen family and band archive as well as iconic footage from Live Aid and the Mandela 70th Birthday Tribute and is set to Simple Minds' cinematic songbook of hits and rarities from Someone, Somewhere in Summertime and Don't You Forget (About Me).

Alec Guinness: A Class Act

1 x 90-minutes | Sky Arts

Alec Guinness was one of the great English actors whose talent and brilliance graced some of the great cinematic events of the 20th century, including Oliver Twist, The Bridge on the River Kwai, Lawrence of Arabia, Doctor Zhivago and Star Wars.

This documentary looks at a career that started in 1934 with a performance at the Playhouse Theatre. Guinness made the transition from Shakespearean theatre to the silver screen with ease. Although he won an Oscar for The Bridge on the River Kwai, he is perhaps best known for his role as Obi-Wan Kenobi in Star Wars – a role he had a love/hate relationship with.

This story is told by family and friends who knew and worked with him, with contributions from his peers. Guinness's own words are used to tell his story with archive interviews and voice recordings of his autobiography.

Call Me Kate

1 x 86-minutes | Sky Arts, Sky Italia, Netflix

Through newly uncovered audio and video footage, the inner life of intensely private screen legend Katharine Hepburn emerges in this documentary.

From the producers of Audrey and McQueen, Call Me Kate is also a movie for the outcasts, the misfits, the girls and boys uncomfortable in their own skin, who don't conform with traditional expectations. It is the universal story of how – like Kate – we must be true to ourselves, not the forces that shape us.

Peter O'Toole: Along the Sky Road to Aqaba

1 x 90-minutes | Sky Arts

Actor Peter O'Toole brought a touch of danger to his art and a stroke of madness to his life yet inspired a generation of movie makers.

Reflecting O'Toole's theatrical legacy, this film is structured into four acts each introduced by a quote about O'Toole that encapsulates his life during a specific period. Each act expands into a holistic narrative addressing questions such as his self-belief, his alcoholism, his relationships with women, his belief in socialism and his selective embrace of Irishness.

While O'Toole's words (gleaned from hundreds of hours of archival interviews) act as a narrator of his own journey, Jim Sheridan further explores the story through interviews with O'Toole's family, artists, actors and directors that knew him well.

“Intense, lovingly compiled documentary.”

PAID IN FULL

THE BATTLE FOR PAYBACK

3 x one hour | BBC, CBC

Paid in Full: The Battle for Payback charts the systematic exploitation of Black artists by the music industry and explores what it would look like for black artists to receive reparations.

With Executive Producers that include Idris and Sabrina Elba, the series documents the extent of the historic injustice suffered by Black artists, including the disparity of profits received by them, despite having created the records that have driven the fabric and culture of popular music.

Joining the dots between earlier decades in the story of the music industry, from jazz and rock and roll to soul and rap, the series will also look at racial inequality in the music industry both today and in the past.

Paid in Full: The Battle for Payback will bring viewers all the way up to the present day, documenting the current state of play and will spotlight those who are fighting for change.

The series features contributions from legendary performers such as Smokey Robinson, Gloria Gaynor, Chaka Khan and Nile Rogers. Also contributing as expert consultants are: MK Asante Jr, bestselling author, rapper, award-winning filmmaker and professor; Lawrence Lartey, Director of Innovation, Industry and Enterprise at Ravensbourne University, London who also works with the Obama Foundation on their My Brother's Keeper initiative; and Professor Kevin J. Greene, one of the first legal scholars to examine the treatment of African American music under intellectual property law.

The Steal

1 x 100-minutes | Channel 4
Also available: 3 x 47-minute version

How America democracy was (almost) broken in 2020.

Directed by Emmy® award-winning Dan Reed (Four Hours at The Capitol), this is the astonishing story of how, for the first time in history, a U.S. President turned his back on democracy and refused to accept the outcome of a general election. In the wake of his 2020 defeat at the polls, Donald Trump recruited a band of odd-ball fanatics, fantasists and profiteers to convince the American people that the election had been stolen and to find a way to subvert the United States Constitution.

As the 2024 presidential election looms, the world must prepare for a renewed, more potent assault on American democracy from a well-drilled authoritarian network armed with four years' preparation.

Taken: Putin's Stolen Children

1 x 90-minutes | BBC

Also available: 1 x one hour version

The emotional story of the thousands of Ukrainian children kidnapped by the Russian state and the desperate attempts by their families to get them back. This is a story every family can relate to and a journey where the stakes could not be higher.

The team that produced the International Emmy® and Peabody winning Mariupol: The People's Story, gained exclusive access to Ukrainian investigators trying to find out what happened to the missing children.

The film is part detective story, part thriller, as the investigators and families piece together what happened to their children. We see them attempting to contact them, and undertake risky trips to try and bring them home from Russia. It is an investigation that leads to the top of the Russian state.

This is a story of every parent's worst fear; the nightmare of a child being taken. Now the parents risk everything to get them back.

Russia's Lost Sons

1 x 80-minutes | Channel 4

Also available: 1 x 54-minute version

With intimate access filmed over a year, this is a deeply personal and emotional journey with women whose loss leads them to seek answers from the Russian state.

The film follows them as their loved ones first go missing in Ukraine, then as they seek answers from what they see as a largely unresponsive administration, discover leads indicating they might still be alive, search military morgues trying to rule out their sons' death, get sent a body that one woman insists is not her husband and join forces with hundreds of other women also searching for their loved ones missing in Ukraine.

Made under increasingly difficult circumstances as Russia's government clamps down on independent reporting, this film is a unique and surprising window on what Russians are experiencing and how many are also the victims of Putin's war in Ukraine.

Also available: 1 x 47-minute version

Andrew Tate – "the world's most Googled man", ex-kickboxer, webcam pimp and the hyper-viral toxic misogynist at the heart of a global moral panic – has instant name-recognition amongst 12-24 year olds throughout the English-speaking world.

But there are growing signs of something dark and sordid lurking in his past, misdeeds that threaten to derail his apparent success. Serious allegations of coercive control and sexual violence against women have now emerged both in Romania and latterly in the United Kingdom.

Who is Tate really and where did he spring from? How did he engineer his meteoric rise to social media stardom in the summer of 2022? And what is the background to his sudden, sensational arrest in the dying days of that year?

Using the vast amounts of archive on Tate's life – both seen and previously unseen – combined with interviews of those who encountered him on his journey to global notoriety, this definitive documentary on Andrew Tate creates a revealing, must-watch narrative of the rise and fall (and perhaps rise again) of the world's most infamous and controversial internet star.

Leaving Neverland 2: The Fight for Justice

1 x 47-minutes | Channel 4

Continuing the story of Wade Robson and James Safechuck on their decade-long quest to have their day in court against Michael Jackson's companies.

That quest is now coming to fruition and a date for a trial is about to be set. If Wade and James's cases are successful, the potential positive impact on the United States' entertainment industry is huge. Music and movie companies will no longer be able to shrug off responsibility when one of their stars sexually abuses a minor in their care.

Directed by Emmy® award-winning Dan Reed, Leaving Neverland 2: The Fight for Justice, filmed over five years with full access to Wade, James, their families and legal teams, tells the story of that difficult journey and its many twists, turns and setbacks before its final success.

The Trouble with Kanye

1 x 75-minutes | BBC

In October 2022, Ye, formerly known as Kanye West, drew widespread condemnation after wearing a White Lives Matter T-shirt at his Paris Fashion Show. That controversy was swiftly followed up with a series of antisemitic statements on social media. With his dangerous statements making global headlines, Ye doubled down by sharing dangerous and inflammatory mistruths during a series of interviews. In the face of backlash, Ye told the paparazzi that he was planning to run for president of the United States in 2024.

Unfolding against the backdrop of Ye's recent behaviour and his rumoured 2024 presidential campaign, this documentary sees award-winning journalist Mobeen Azhar travel to the United States to try and discover how one of America's most celebrated artists became a megaphone for hate and division.
